EVENING ENTERTAINMENTS

At the County Institute Next Week Will Be of a High Order.

The evening entertainments for institute are of the very best. No labor has been spared to give the very best talent we can secure and if these entertainers are at their best when they appear there is no doubt that they will be appreciated. Monday evening Mr. Strickland W. Gilliland of Chicago will deliver a humorous lecture on "Sunshine and Awkwardness." Mr. Gilliland is a national figure having been looked up and recorded in Who's Who in America and in the National Encyclopedia of American Biography. He contributes to the Saturday Evening Post, Ladies' Home Journal, Judge, Life, Woman's Home Companion, Success, Chicago Daily News. His honor is his own and he is equal to Colonel Hamm, Byron King, Judge Allison and any of the highest type. He is a poet, philosopher, and a real humorist. If you follow to laugh you want to hear this fellow.

No one who is a lover of music can afford to miss the Dunbars on Tuesday evening. This is a very high class company and they give an extraordinary entertainment. They are the finest bell ringers in the country and always draw large crowds. Their equipment is the finest that money can buy and they are all great singers.

Wednesday evening we have "The Purposeful Orator," Edward Amherst Ott. His lecture is entitled "Sour Grapes" and is one of the best lectures delivered today on the platform. He is humorous and instructive. Governor Glenn, Judge Aiden and Judge Lindsey are men of his type except he is more of an orator than either of the above.

On Thursday evening there will be one of the best musical treats we have had for some years. The College Singing Girls are reputed to be the ablest company on the platform. They are superior to the Vassar Girls or the Commonwealth Concert Company.

Wednesday and Thursday the directors will meet in the Court House and have their annual convention. This will be under the leadership of Prof. Wright. Mr. C. H. Gordinier, Shippensburg, and Mr. William Leuder, Riddsburg, will address this meeting. A query box will be conducted by which any director may ask any question he wishes. Directors should make a special effort to attend these interesting meetings and get progressive ideas on school matters.

Yours very truly,
Victor E. P. Barkman,
County Superintendent.

Surprise Party

Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Rebecca Arnold, 115 West Penn Street, a very pleasant surprise party was given for Aunt Beckie. At a late hour the merry crowd left, wishing Aunt Beckie many more happy surprises.

Organ Recital and Dedication

The Presbyterian Church was filled last Friday evening on the occasion of the Recital with the new pipe organ. Mr. John Everson of Pittsburg played most acceptably, and was admirably supported by Mr. Raymond Samuel, violin, and Mrs. Frederick Samuel, harp. The organ, finished in walnut and gold, is placed back of the pulpit, with the console built at one end. The tonal qualities of the organ are superb, and the installation of this new instrument adds much to the beauty of both the church and its services. The organ was dedicated last Sunday morning, Rev. Edward Franklin Reimer, B. D., preaching a special and appropriate sermon, and also offering the dedicatory prayer.

Bitten by Mad Dog

Last Friday Emory G. Northcraft, 13-year-old son of Michael Northcraft of Artemas, was bitten by a dog that was supposed to be mad. The dog also bit two hogs for Mr. Mountain, a neighbor of the Northcrafts. The cur was killed by Mr. Mountain. On Tuesday the boy, in company with Henry L. Bennett, came to Bedford and left on the 4:23 p. m. train for Pittsburg, where the lad will receive treatment at the Allegheny General Hospital. They had the dead dog with them which will be examined in order to ascertain for a certainty whether it was mad or not.

ANNUAL CONVENTION

Of Bedford County Fruit Growers' Association

HELD HERE LAST WEEK

Up-to-Date and Interesting Topics Were Discussed—Officers Chosen For Ensuing Year.

The Fruit Growers' Association of Bedford County convened in their fourth annual meeting in the Court House December 8 and 9 at 1:45 p. m., with President A. C. Richards of New Paris in the chair. The devotional service was conducted by Rev. Reimer of the Presbyterian Church. In the absence of Hon. John M. Reynolds Simon H. Sell, Esq., delivered the address of welcome, which was well received by his audience. The response to the address of welcome was delivered by Hon. F. R. Fertig of Lebanon in a very excellent and pleasing manner.

"Peach Culture," the first topic of the program, was then taken up and discussed by W. E. Grove of York Springs. He said in part: "I have found good peach orchards practically in every soil in the state. I have found the mountain fruit is better flavored than the low land fruit. You must plant good, healthy stock. Personally, I have found the trees from Alabama do equally well with those from New York or northern Ohio. I prefer having my trees delivered in the fall so that I can plant in early spring. My personal idea is to plant trees of medium size and plant two or three inches deeper than when in the nursery. If you grow potatoes in your orchard, after the potatoes are dug and your trees show by their growth that they are not deficient in nitrogen I would not advise plowing or cow peas. Rye would be a very cheap and effective cover crop for winter. Peaches are only grown on new wood—two-year-old wood will not grow peaches. For the San Jose scale I prefer the lime-sulfur. A good fog-like spray, and get it on good and thorough; use coarse nozzle and high pressure. Brown rot is partly controlled by spraying; 8 lbs. sulfur, 8 lbs. lime, 2 lbs. arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of water; spray when shucks are coming off of the end of peach or are the size of a chestnut. Market the early fruit in carriers and the later in baskets and crates." A. S. Guyer, "The other speaker on this topic, made a few appropriate and practical remarks, encouraging the tree planters in this county. This was further discussed by Dr. S. H. Gump, George H. McKay, A. C. Richards, W. C. Tyson and F. R. Fertig.

"What Varieties of Winter Apples Should We Adopt?" This topic was opened and very ably handled by W. C. Tyson. He said: "We should study our soil condition and our attitude. A great deal depends on the market. For instance, Philadelphia a Grimes Golden, New York a Jonathan. Plant an apple of very fine quality. You must consider the life of your trees. The first 5,000 we planted was for Imperial. The York Imperial in our section is the best we can grow. Stayman Winesap is very successful and we would advise having some Stayman. Grimes Golden should be top worked on a very hardy wood. Fine Jonathan is best grown on some of the higher elevations." This was followed by remarks by George H. McKay of the Reading Terminal Cold Storage Building. "The apple of the east compare very favorably with those of the west. We are deficient in sending our apples to market in an attractive way. In five years more at this pace, we can beat the west in flavor and appearance. If I was going to plant an orchard for the public I would plant what they like, such as Jonathan, which is now selling at $6 and $7 per barrel, $3 to $4 per box. Rome Beauty and Baldwin." Prof. H. A. Surface of Harrisburg was then introduced and gave a few appropriate remarks on varieties for Bedford County, advising the planting of more summer apples. This was followed by remarks from Dr. Gump, W. E. Grove and A. C. Richards, who advised the planting of Jonathan and Stayman Winesap.

Evening Session

Called to order at 7:30 by Chairman A. C. Richards. "Grades of Fruit," Size of Packages and How to Pack," was opened by W. C. Tyson of Florida. "To get the highest price they must be put up to attract the consumers eye. Our first grade is put in boxes, graded solid to size and color, for which we get from $2.50 to $3.00 per box. Second and third grades are placed in barrels. The summer and fall apples are packed in bushel baskets with a clamped lid, for which we receive from 85c to $1.25 per basket. A standard box must contain 2,342 cubic inches. A standard barrel has 28 1/2 inch staves, 17 1/2 inch head, 26 inches between heads, with a 64 inch bulge, outside measure." After a few remarks by Mr. Fertig the topic was further discussed by Mr. McKay. "The time is not far distant when all apples will be packed by a licensed packer. The time is coming when more apples will be sold in peck, half-bushel and bushel boxes than in barrels. The money is in the small and attractive package." This topic was then taken up by Prof. Surface. "There are possibilities for an organization for the co-operation for packing and selling our fruit. A business man to do the selling, a scientific man to do the packing and a secretary to notify its members when a

For many years she was president of the Epworth League and was an able Bible scholar and Sunday School teacher. Sympathetic, tender-hearted, untiring, always ready to help those in need. She will be greatly missed, but has gone to her eternal home to enjoy the promised rest. "She hath done what she could."

Her mother preceded her to the grave about eighteen years ago. Besides her father, William K. Agnew, she is survived by a brother and three sisters: W. H. Agnew of Tyrone, Mrs. W. H. Weller of Wilkingsburg, Mrs. W. D. Thompson of Jerome, Somerset County, and Mrs. Annie C. Stiver of Parsons, W. Va.

Rev. Emory Stevens, District Superintendent of the Williamsport District, conducted the funeral services in Tyrone at 7:30 Wednesday evening, and on Thursday morning the remains were brought to this place on the 10 o'clock train and taken to the Methodist Church. Casey's Picture

Casey decided to go into business, so he bought out a small livery stable and had a painter make a sign for him showing him astride a mule. He had this sign placed in front of the stable and was quite proud of it. His friend Finnigan happened along and stood gazing at the sign.

"That's a good picture of me, ain't it?" asked Casey.

"Sure it looks something like you," said Finnigan, "but who the devil is the man on your back?"—From Norman E. Mack's National Monthly.

HAPPY RESULTS

Have Made Many Bedford Residents Enthusiastic.

No wonder scores of Bedford citizens grow enthusiastic. It is enough to make anyone happy to find relief after years of suffering. Public statements like the following are but truthful representations of the daily work done in Bedford by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Miss Mary F. Wise, 147 Spring St., Bedford, Pa., says: "I received such great benefit from Doan's Kidney Pills that I can give them my highest endorsement. My back ached intensely and I had such acute pains through my kidneys that I could hardly stoop or lift. Headaches and dizzy spells annoyed me and I felt miserable in every way. Doan's Kidney Pills brought relief from all these difficulties and I feel that I cannot say too much in their praise. You are at liberty to use this statement."

Sudden Death at Altoona Hospital

David Ruby, a well-known resident and coal miner of Six Mile Run, was taken to the Altoona Hospital Thursday evening of last week for treatment for nephritis, with which he had been ailing for the past several weeks, in the hope that his life might be prolonged. The journey from his home to the institution was a futile one for at 7:10 o'clock, a half hour after having been admitted he passed away. He had apparently stood the trip well, but just as he had been placed in bed he took a sinking spell and died. The deceased was aged 52 years and is survived by his wife and six children. The remains were taken to Six Mile Run for interment.

Mrs. John S. Ritchie

Mrs. Sarah Jane Ritchie, wife of John S. Ritchie, died at her home in Altoona Friday morning of a complication of diseases after an illness of several weeks. Deceased's maiden name was Shade and she was born at Waterside on January 17, 1862. She is survived by her husband and seven children. She is also survived by her mother, Mrs. Shade, of Morrison's Cove and a brother and sister, Frank Shade and Mrs. F. Gates, both of Altoona. Funeral services were conducted at the house at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon and interment was made in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Slain Baby's Mother Dies

Miss Fannie M. Robinson, mother of the three-day-old child, for whose murder her mother, Mrs. Adeline Robinson, is confined in Ebensburg jail, died in Memorial Hospital, Johnstown, on Friday, without having been informed of its fate.

Miss Robinson was a professional nurse of Hollidaysburg, and refused to disclose the paternity of the child. Mrs. Robinson maintains an attitude of indifference, and does not seem to realize the seriousness of the charge against her.

The child was chloroformed while the grandmother was taking it to the railway station in a cab.

Two Attorneys Disbarred

Judge Thomas J. Baldrige entered decrees in the Blair County Court on Friday disbarring two attorneys for unprofessional conduct. They were Chambers O. Templeton of Tyrone, representing the Blair-Huntingdon district in the State Senate, and H. P. Graffius of Altoona, a former United States Commissioner. Templeton offered his written resignation from the bar, but the court declined to accept it.

Both attorneys were charged with misappropriating the funds of their clients.

Died at Windber

Amos Whitaker, a well-known resident of Oglestown, Somerset County, died at the Windber Hospital from a complication of diseases on Saturday, December 10, aged 75 years. He had lived all alone at Oglestown, and had been ill for a long time. The deceased was born in Bedford County, but spent the greater part of his life at Oglestown. He is survived by two sons—Daniel of Oglestown and Samuel of Ryot. Two brothers also survive—Peter of Queen and Samuel, also of this county. The deceased was a member of the United Brethren Church. Interment was made in the family burying grounds on the Whitaker farm at Oglestown.

J. W. Greer, Greenwood, La., suffered with a severe case of lumbago. "The pains were so intense I was forced to hypodermic injections for relief. These attacks started with a pain in the small of my back which gradually became fairly paralyzing. My attention was attracted to Foley's Kidney Remedy and I am glad to say after using this wonderful medicine I am no longer bothered in any way by my old enemy lumbago." Ed. D. Heckerman.

"THE ROUND-UP"

To Be Produced at the Mishler Theatre, Altoona, December 18-22.

"The Round-Up," conceded to be the largest production of its kind on the stage, will be the attraction at the Mishler Theatre, Altoona, Pa., for four days, starting Monday night, December 19, with matinees Wednesday and Thursday.

The locale of the scenes of "The Round-Up" are in Southwestern Arizona. This gives opportunity for a marvelous scenic production of mountains, canyons, plains, scenes of the desert and the lava beds of New Mexico—a district scorched by the sun and rainless. Into this variety of charming and awe-inspiring scenes is projected a story of the frontier. The play tells the story of the bride who discovers her husband has won her by a trick. The unsuccessful suitor voluntarily wanders into the desert to die. He is followed by the young husband, who at the command of his wife, would rescue the wanderer. This incident gives opportunity for remarkable canyon and cliff scenes, in which are shown the vivid landscape hues and atmospheric effect of that picturesque country. Over the face of the cliff comes a troupe of Apaches mounted on horseback, picking their way among the train of the white men, who become allies against the common foe.

This scene is one of the largest ever enacted in a theatre, and it also shows the appearance of "Slim" Hoover, the Sheriff, his deputies and the cavalrymen to the rescue. Another remarkable scene is the round-up of the bucking ponies.

ARE YOU DEAF?

Catarh is Probably the Cause—Get Rid of the Cause.

If you have catarrh and have constant ringing noises in your ears look into the matter at once.

It's a pretty sure sign that catarrh is spreading and is making its way through the Eustachian tubes that lead from the nose to the ears.

When catarrh gets to the ears, partial deafness follows. If you have ringing noises in your ears go to F. W. Jordan today and get a HYOMEI outfit and drive out catarrh.

To cure catarrh HYOMEI should be breathed through the Hyomei inhaler for a few minutes, four or five times a day. Just pour a few drops into the hard rubber inhaler and breathe it.

It kills the germs; soothes the irritation; heals the inflammation; stops hawking, spitting and snuffling. HYOMEI keeps the throat free from mucus and prevents crusts from nose.

The complete HYOMEI outfit which includes the little indestructible hard rubber inhaler, a bottle of HYOMEI and simple instructions for use, costs $1.00.

Wedding at New Paris

A very pretty marriage was solemnized at noon on December 7 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Adams, of New Paris, when their daughter, Miss Mildred J. Adams, was united to William F. Hiner, also of that place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. N. S. Bailey, assisted by Rev. H. W. Bender of Schellsburg. Miss Goldie Ridenour played Mendelssohn's wedding march as the bridal party marched through the prettily decorated room. The bride was attended by Misses Elsie Leppert and Elsie Suter, while the groom's attendants were John Hiner and Mingle Davis. After receiving congratulations, the guests repaired to the dining room where a sumptuous dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Hiner are two of New Paris' popular young people. They will make their home with the bride's parents for the present.

TWO 1804 DOLLARS FOUND

Only Four Others Said to Be in Existence.

Two of the rare United States silver dollars of the 1804 issue turned up at Carlisle last Thursday. They were found by Miss Mabel Smith, executrix, among the property of the late John C. Comfort, who died two weeks ago.

Although more than nineteen thousand of the coins were minted, nearly all of them were sent to the Mediterranean to pay off the men on the American fleet then in those waters. The ship was lost at sea. As far as coin experts know there are only four more of the pieces in existence. The last time one was sold it brought more than $3,000.

THIRTIETH ANNIVERSARY

The Osterburg Cornet Band Celebrated by Giving a Banquet.

On December 3 the Osterburg Cornet Band celebrated its 30th anniversary by holding a banquet in the Band Hall where an elaborate chicken and waffle supper was served to eighty-two persons.

Hon. George W. Oster, one of the charter members of the band, acted as toastmaster. Mr. Oster spoke of the earlier history of the band, reciting the trials and experiences of the band during the first eight years of its existence, the time during which he was a member.

Rev. J. W. Zehring responded to "What it has cost to maintain the band, and the moral influence it has had on this community." Rev. Zehring paid glowing tribute to the band as a moral influence, and especially called attention to the part taken in Divine service by band members, an encouraging fact to the minister.

Rev. H. C. Salem spoke on "The personality of the band and the individual band member." Rev. Salem particularized the high standard of the band as a teacher in music, in morals, and in citizenship. He also spoke of the quality of the individual members and especially called attention to one, S. B. Stambaugh, who is a composer of national reputation.

J. H. Stambaugh, one of the present members of the band, gave a financial status of the band. He said in part, as follows: "The Osterburg Band was organized on October 8, 1880, with 12 charter members. Entire enrollment, 98; present enrollment, 22. Deaths of members while actively engaged in the band: 3, Albert Gochnour, 1881; David Griffith, 1900; Shannon B. Riddle, 1910. Band turned out in uniform at the funerals. Average price for playing: First 10 years of band, $5 to $8 per day; at present, $30 to $40 per day and all expenses. Instruments purchased: Four new sets at average cost of $1,140, or $4,560. Uniforms purchased: Four new sets at average cost of $350, or $1,400. Music purchased annually, $50, or $1,500. At present the instruments and uniforms are in good condition. The band also owns their own hall, valued at $700. Their band wagon is valued at $150, and have $400 in the treasury; making an allowance for fuel and repairs of $1,290 would total $10,000 handled by the band since its organization. Most of this amount being earned by the band, as no donations were received except at the organization. No member ever receives any compensation for services. All moneys are turned into the treasury. An instruments and uniforms are furnished free to members and all expenses while with the band are paid by the band. Membership and instruction are without cost. Band meets once and twice a week or an average of 60 times a year.

"Present membership is as follows with corresponding years of service: George Riddle 30 years, Quitman Bowser 30, Jacob Long 28, J. C. Stambaugh 28, George Stambaugh 26, (at band engagements George Stambaugh has missed playing two pieces of music in 26 years of service); A. S. Cobler 21, D. W. Stambaugh 21, J. H. Stambaugh 18, S. B. Stambaugh (Dir.) 18, George W. Speece 10, Samuel W. Riddle 10, William F. Cameron 8, J. R. While Democrats Spent Only $27,771 to Capture House.

It cost the Republican Congressional campaign committee $74,373.35 to conduct its losing campaign. The Democratic Committee spent $27,771.22 and has $19.69 left. These figures were given when the treasurers of the two committees filed detailed reports with the clerk of the House of Representatives on Thursday in compliance with the Campaign Publicity law passed June 25.

The two committees report the contributions made since the law went into effect. Most of the Republican fund is unaccounted for, as one item in the report reads: "Cash on hand June 25, 1910, $47,030.44." Chairman Lloyd reports that the Democrats had $13,258.22 on that date.

Farmers' Week

Farmers' Week at The Pennsylvania State College will be held this year December 19 to 24, inclusive.

A splendid opportunity is offered to all farmers interested in a better agriculture. Lectures on live topics will be given by men who have practical experience as well as scientific knowledge. In addition to the lectures, many practical demonstrations in judging dairy cattle, beef cattle, horses, sheep, swine and poultry will be given. The program is so arranged that any individual can attend lectures during each period upon the subjects which interest him most.

Many of the speakers are men of national prominence in their respective lines from this and other states. Every farmer, who can possibly do so, should arrange to spend at least a part of the week in getting into touch with this practical science which is offered.

The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of these experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds himself regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak," the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

Old World Trimmings in Vogue—Ruffs With Corded or Fluted Edges. With the vogue of the new-old silks, taffetas and moires and peau de cygne, there has come a partial revival of the old time trimmings—narrow ruffles with fluted or corded edges, puffings and box plaited silk bandings and the like.

A smart and neat finish for the cuffs of the embroidered tailored waist is to buttonhole the edge of the cuffs as closely as possible. This edge not only wears well, but gives a good body to the end of the sleeve.

One of the loveliest gown materials of the winter is moire silk and wool poplin spattered with self colored polka dots. The poplin has the chiffon finish of all new fabrics and falls in the most graceful folds.

Woolback satin is one of the smartest materials for handsome tailor mades, and it certainly outdoes in appearance the satins which have been used for the purpose the last year.

This overblouse is laid in tiny tucks and cut with short kimono sleeves. The shaped trimming portion is very effective, though simple to treat. Any guimpe can be worn with this blouse.

COST THIRTEEN DIVES

And Scores Were Injured During Hunting Season in This State.

Fatal hunting accidents in Pennsylvania were only one less than the number of deaths in football in all forty-six states of the country this fall. The serious gunning accidents in Pennsylvania alone number nearly twice as many as all the football accidents in the United States.

This comparison of "sports that kill" is obtained from a careful compilation of all gunning accidents reported in Pennsylvania to local newspapers this fall and from a summary of football accidents which was widely published at the conclusion of the gridiron season.

The record, as obtainable, is: Football in the United States, 1910—Deaths, 14; serious injuries, 17. Hunting in Pennsylvania, 1910—Deaths, 13; serious injuries, 31.

The list of gunning casualties shows a death or injury for almost every day of the season. The victims are mainly boys under 21 years old. Of the thirteen dead, seven were killed by weapons in their own hands and six by guns in the hands of other persons.

The causes of the accidents were stumbling, fence climbing, careless loading, stacking guns against trees, heedless aiming and ignorance that guns were loaded. In no case is it reported that a hunter was mistaken for game, as often happens in the bigger hunting grounds of Maine and the northwest.

One peculiar accident was the death of a hunter by heart disease when a rabbit he thought he had shot dead jumped just as he was about to pick it up. This victim was Albert Henne, a school director and hotel man of Dickinson City.

At least a dozen persons were reported as having little chance of recovery from accidental gunshot wounds. Of the score or more other persons seriously injured a majority lost a leg or arm or eye.

Nearly all the accidents occurred in the hunt of small game, rabbits and pheasants. The deer and bear hunting seasons were unusually successful, the state fish and game commission reporting that over 800 deer were shot and about 600 bears.

CHRISTMAS CARDS

North American Christmas Number Has an Entirely Novel Feature.

The Christmas number of The North American, which will be published on December 18, promises something altogether unique in the way of a special supplement. All buyers of this paper of that issue, excepting mail subscribers, will receive free a sheet of Christmas cards, reproduced from some of the greatest paintings of the age. There are six cards in the sheet, which when cut apart may be used for sending with gifts or for mailing as mementoes of the holiday season.

The cards are reproduced very artistically by photogravure process and the subjects are chosen with a view of suiting almost any taste.

The North American Christmas number will be unusually attractive in text and illustrations. Its special numbers are always of the highest standard. This one promises to be just a little better than those that have preceded it.

Tame Eagles.

A man living near Tromso, in Norway, is a great lover of wild birds and has succeeded in taming three eagles. He took them on the mountain side while they were young and, according to the London Field, kept them a couple of years in captivity. As their craving for liberty, however, grew stronger and stronger he at last let them loose, but they have settled down in the neighborhood of his home, and when he ascends the height which has become their favorite resort with fish or a newly shot seagull they quickly discover him from afar and come majestically sailing through the air, settling down beside him. Their meal over, they willingly allow him to pet and stroke them before they again make for the rocky islets, but they will not allow a stranger to approach them.

The Oldest Coiners Known.

Did you know coins were in use as early as 800 years B. C.? It is a fact that a pure silver coin bearing a perfect Aramean inscription of Panammu Bar Rerub, king of Schamol, who reigned at that time, was recently found by a German collector during his explorations in northern Syria. Up to this time the Lydians were regarded as the inventors of money, but this new find showed that the Arameans, who lived two centuries before, were the oldest coiners.

THE ACADIANS

Brief Sketch of the Trials of a Persecuted People.

Nova Scotia belongs to the Canadian Confederation, and is valuable chiefly for its coal; gypsum, which when powdered makes plaster of Paris, and fisheries of cod and herring.

About the year 1604 De Monts, a French nobleman of wealth and influence, fired with an ambition to colonize the new world, obtained from the king a grant of a strip of country 360 miles wide, extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and having the 40th parallel of latitude for its southern boundary.

The following year he, with a company of emigrants, all under the command of that celebrated traveler and explorer, Sam Champlain, crossed the Atlantic, steering for a point south of the mouth of the great St. Lawrence, which Champlain had explored a few years previous.

Immediately upon their arrival they founded a colony which they named Port Royal and began to till the soil. This was the first attempt by the white man at agriculture in America. This whole territory was named Acadia, but the name afterward was confined to New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

On account of the severity of the climate, and the barren soil, this settlement was soon abandoned; but within a few years other settlers, under new leaders, gave it a place on the early colonial map of North America and made it a bone of contention between England and France.

During the war known as King Williams', the English sent an army under Gov. Phips of Massachusetts against this place, captured it and secured enough booty, it is said, to pay current expenses, but when the treaty of peace was made it was given back to the French.

About ten years later, during Queen Anne's war, the place was again captured by a combined force of English and Colonial troops, and the name of Port Royal, in honor of the queen, was changed to Annapolis.

But the victory over the Acadians was not yet completed and when the fourth Colonial war—called the French and Indian, because the Indians assisted the French in their wars with the English—which was to decide whether the English or French should be masters of America, broke out the English planned and carried out an expedition against that part of Acadia still under the French flag and now known as New Brunswick. From this place predatory war parties could descend by sea or land upon the New England States and when pursued retreat for safety to the forts at the head of the bay of Fundy. It also controlled the Newfoundland fisheries which were and are very valuable. Therefore, it was imperative that it be made subject to England. But after its capture it proved to be the fabled White Elephant to them because the Acadians greatly outnumbered the English and unless a large force of English soldiery be stationed there rebellion would be rife and life and property in constant danger.

The soldiers were needed elsewhere and as the inhabitants refused to take the oath of allegiance to the English government and peacefully submit to their conquerors, an act of atrocity and barbarism, unequalled in civilized warfare was perpetrated upon them which forever would render them harmless—and homeless as well.

An edict was issued by the English commandant for all the Acadians; men, women and children, regardless of age or physical condition, to come to the forts on a certain day. As soon as they left their homes the torch was applied thereto and their stock driven off. That night as they lay on the ground, their only bed and the sky above them as their only covering, the blackness of the night painted red by the burning of those homes made and furnished by their individual labor, their feeling can be better imagined than described.

The next morning at an early hour the work of embarkation began. Praying men, sobbing women and crying children, men more dead than alive, women with babies in their arms, torn from their homes and separated from those near and dear to them, were driven at the point of the bayonet, like sheep to the slaughter, onto the loathsome English ships; not to return to their native land, not to return to the homes they had just quitted, but to be cast as strangers in a land not only strangers but enemies, to be kicked and cuffed, insulted and abused, not for a day, or a week, or a month, but for life, only to be freed from this worse than death by the angel of Death.

This human freight was cast ashore in the English colonies at New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Jamestown, Port Royal, N. C., and New Orleans, broken in families, broken in heart, broken in pride, broken in spirit, nevermore to be united, never more to be a people.

Those who care to know more of the fate of these unlucky people would do well to read the world celebrated poem "Evangeline," written by our own poet, Henry W. Longfellow.

Some writers try to justify this act of cruelty on the part of the English government by saying that it was done without consent of king or council but purely by military power; this may be true, but king nor council raised no protest, nor made any effort to alleviate the suffering of this a grossly wronged and injured people, but were eager to add the little wealth thus acquired to their already overflowing coffers.

Let us not forget that injury and injustice are foreign one to the other, and such a thing as a justified injury, whether it be to individual, state or nation, is impossible.

H. G. Smith.

Accidents will happen, but the best-regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Eucalypti Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurts.

The Morning Call

Ma comes and calls at early dawn,
An, I say: "Yessum."
She calls again and I just yawn
An' answer: "Yessum."
I love to lie just half awake
An' dream of fishin' in the lake
An' smell the buckwheat battercake,
An' answer: "Yessum."
Again she comes and gives her call,
An, I say: "Yessum."
Each mornin' it is that there way:
I just say: "Yessum."
I don't git up ner stir at all;
I just say: "Yessum."
And then she hollers, "Willum, you
Have got your mornin' chores to do,
You'll have to hustle to git through."
An, I say: "Yessum."
She calls an' calls an' I just say:
"I'm comin', yessum."
Then dad comes an' he hollers:
"Bill!"
An' then I stop my lyin' still
An' go to dressin' with a will,
An' holler: "Comin'!"

Shopping By Mail

Not long ago, in a little town in one of the Southern Prohibition States, a young man entered the postoffice and asked the postmaster for a postoffice order.

"For how much?" asked the postmaster.

"Two gallons," was the prompt reply.—From Norman E. Mack's National Monthly.

FRIDAY MORNING, DEC. 16, 1910.

This week Andrew Carnegie gave $10,000,000 to further international peace, but the Government at Washington has not ordered the work on the dreadnaughts now in construction discontinued.

WHY?

At the special session of the Legislature in 1908 an Act was passed and by the signature of the Governor became a law providing that candidates for office and treasurers of committees handling campaign funds should file accounts in the office of the Clerk of the Court of Quarter Sessions, and all items of expense exceeding ten dollars should be accompanied with vouchers showing to whom and for what purpose the same were paid.

An examination of the records at the Court House shows that Dr. William C. Miller, the treasurer of the Republican County Committee, failed to comply with the provisions of the Act, both last year and this. Thirty days after election are allowed by the Act in which to prepare and file the statement of expenses, and failure by Dr. Miller to file his account within that time makes him amenable to the law.

Clerk of Court Guyer says that an account has been filed and yet it cannot be found in the Court House, and if he has permitted its withdrawal from his office by Dr. Miller or any other person, he is certainly neglectful of his duties.

The purpose of the Act is to remove the baneful influence of the illegal use of money in elections, by requiring the accounts to be sworn to and made public. Heretofore in Bedford County large sums of money were contributed to debase the electors, and if these plain provisions of the law are ignored, then we may expect the offices to be filled by men who obtained their election by all the corrupt practices known to the unscrupulous politician.

The Bedford Inquirer in criticizing the management of the past Republican campaign by Dr. Miller said that it was not for lack of funds, and the question is now frequently heard: "What did Dr. Miller do with the money that Reynolds, Hartman, Endsley, Bradley and the liquor dealers contributed?" for the expenses of the last election? If the expenses were legitimate, Dr. Miller ought not to hesitate to make his account public. If he has a large balance on hand, he ought not to be ashamed to say so. Every candidate has complied with the law, and the treasurer of the Democratic County Committee has filed his account, and is there any reason why the Republican treasurer should be excused? Is it possible that the liquor dealers, who worked so zealously for Bradley, their candidate for the Legislature, will be exposed if the names of the contributors to the Republican campaign fund are made public? Is there danger that the conspiracy between the Republican leaders and the whisky interests, which exists for the control of all the county offices as well as the license court, will be broken up, if publicity is given to the election receipts and expenses?

A GLANCE AT THE CENSUS

The census figures recently given out at Washington are startling. That in round numbers 92,000,000 people reside in continental United States and that nearly 10,000,000 live in our island possessions, making a total of about 102,000,000 is almost beyond belief. The government and care of these enormous masses of people are matters of vital interest and vast importance.

These figures, so far as numbers are concerned, take us out of the class of France and Germany and even England and place us on the list with China and India and Russia. "Their problems," said Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler in a recent interview, "are our problems."

The tendency to go from the farm to the city, the disposition to seek the theatre and the opera—to turn away from nature to live amid sham and pretense—is best illustrated by figures from Iowa, a state located in an agricultural belt, whose increase in the ten years past was but three-tenths of one per cent.

An increase during the next ten years equal in proportion to that of the last ten years will cause, according to a student of the "problems of population," utilize all of our tillable soil and we shall then have to depend in great measure upon foreign nations for many things we need for daily consumption. What then shall be our attitude on the tariff question? When the crisis comes, if it ever does, will our colonial possessions be a benefit or a hindrance?

It might be well for those entrusted with the making of the laws to govern those over whom the Stars and Stripes now float to leaf the pages of history and consider the causes that led to the fall of mighty nations that had existed for periods of years in comparison with which the short period that has passed since the signing of the Declaration of Independence is not to be considered. In each and every instance the failure to take care of things internal and the disposition to grasp and expand was either a primary or a secondary cause. Persia surrendered her place as the greatest of the powers of the earth; Greece had her turn but she, too, fell. Rome, from her historic hills, wielded the wand of the world's power, but in turn lost it. Shall history repeat itself? Can the United States today take care of her continental and island coasts? "The hope of the nation," says an eminent writer, "lies in the practical and patriotic education of the youth of the land; such an education as will cause men to think for themselves, and, thinking, select men as lawmakers who will keep ever in view the welfare of the masses; men who will not allow tariff schedules to be written by the classes for the benefit of the favored few, but who will, themselves, study conditions and arrange schedules that will work the greatest good to the greatest number."

LEGISLATION FOR THE FARMER

William T. Creasy, master of the State Grange, in his annual address before that organization, which is in session at Butler, made this statement: "I hold that if the farmer is to get proper recognition, he must pay more attention to legislation." Mr. Creasy should know what he is talking about. He spent many years in the Legislature and led many battles against the Penrose Republican machine. Many times he made earnest appeals to members of the House of Representatives to give the farmers a few concessions, but because the farmers of the state failed to rally to his support, he was unable to accomplish anything.

In every campaign in Pennsylvania we find orators for the Penrose machine going about the state promising good roads and numerous other things, in order to secure the support of the farmers for their candidates. Very few of these promises have been fulfilled. The real friends of the farmers in the Legislature stand up and fight at every session for what has been promised them by the dominating machine, but just as often they are given the laugh.

Mr. Creasy is in position to give the members of the grange some very good advice. He is familiar with the tricks of the Penrose politicians in the Legislature and knows just what is needed to get fair play. His appeal to the grangers to take more interest in legislation, therefore, should not go undecided.

The grangers in this state are a powerful organization. It is a good theory to preach that the grangers, as an organization, should keep out of politics, but it works out badly for the grangers. The Penrose machine wants to keep just such organizations out of politics. It aids him to keep control of the state. If the grangers would stand together, as some other organizations do, and support for public office the men whom they know would grant their demands, they can get the legislation they need. So long, however, as they are divided and accept the promises of the Penrose machine, they can expect to "get the laugh" many more times.—Pittsburg Post.

Ballot Frauds Blackest Crime

Ballot frauds were declared a worse crime against national institutions than the assassination of presidents by Supreme Court Justice Garrison, in his charge to the grand jury at Camden, N. J., on Tuesday.

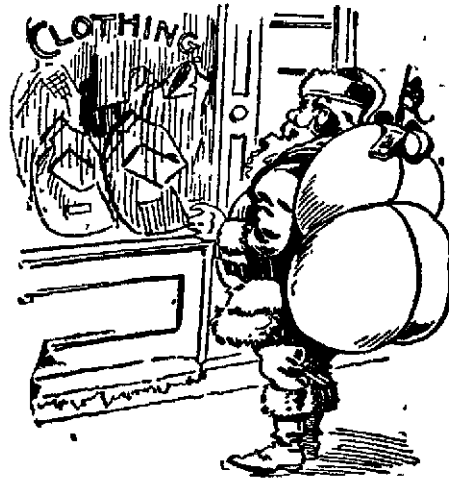

"It has been the unfortunate history of this nation to have three of its presidents assassinated," he said, "but terrible as those things were they had no tendency to destroy the institutions of our government. No matter how exalted may have been the character or how useful the chief ruler of this nation, his taking off by an act of violence did not affect the stability of the government. But a single suppression by fraud or force of the right of suffrage strikes at the institutions of government more than would any number of assassinations of presidents, or judges, or any other set of officials."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

A young man with an Endowment Policy of Life Insurance is worthy of the respect and confidence of a good woman—only men of character can get life insurance these days. A young wife will be wise who encourages her husband to place a part of his savings in an Endowment Policy—better than wheat in the mill. Such a policy has filled many a coal-bin and made smooth the way for wife and kiddies when the provider has suddenly dropped out. A man and woman agreeing upon this vital point of buying Life Insurance have reached an enviable place—they're stamped as people of good judgment and mutual confidence.

Think it over, folks, at this Christmas Time of Love. Let me tell you what the Provident Life and Trust has for you. It will be the happiest gift-giving of your life if you buy an Endowment Policy—even if you must pinch a little at the start.

See me at once.

carload is to be placed on the market, say all Spitzenberg, or maybe all Jonathan.
"Preparation and Use of Concentrated Lime-Sulfur" was very intelligently given by Prof. J. W. Gregg of State College. "Lime-sulfur can be made at your home better and cheaper than you can buy the concentrated. By corking the barrel tight you can store in your cellar till ready to use; 25 lbs. lime, 50 lbs. sulfur, 25 gals. water, when ready to spray dilute 1 to 7 of water. A hydrometer should be used to get the correct density of your concentrates. To make your lime-sulfur, put lime in first, just enough water to crack time, then add sulfur and water and stir continually till you have all your sulfur in and water to the amount of lime and sulfur used." This lecture was followed by remarks from W. E. Grove, McKay, Gump and Tyson. Prof. Surface said lime-sulfur will kill scurfy scale, San Jose scale, oyster shell bark, louse and pear leaf blister mite, applied during dormant season. Weak lime-sulfur will take the place of bordeaux mixture for codling moth, two pounds of arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of weak solution, dilute five times as much as for scale; apply just before buds burst and again just before the calyx closes.

Friday Morning Session
Called to order at 9:15 by Chairman Richards. Prof. J. W. Gregg then took up the topic, "Lime-Sulfur as a Summer Spray." "The bordeaux cannot always be depended on. Lime-sulfur is the thing in a weak, diluted form in controlling the fungus and summer pests; 1½ gals. lime-sulfur, 2 lbs. arsenate of lead, 50 gals. water. [Prof. Surface: That is a strong mixture.] You must use standard strength material, use a neutral, not an acid arsenate of lead." Prof. Surface: It will act as an insecticide, destroying young scale. "The Use and Need of Cover Crop" was opened by J. I. Barley of Baker's Summit in a very few words. Prof. Surface then took up the same topic and gave some scientific as well as practical thoughts. "The best cover crop is crimson clover. A good plan is to sow rye, sow earlier than usual. Oats is a good winter cover crop; it freezes in winter and therefore vegetation does not start in spring." This was followed by remarks by Prof. Gregg, A. B. Ross, J. I. Barley, Dr. Gump, F. R. Fertig, A. C. Richards and W. C. Tyson.

"Orchard Renovation" was then discussed in a very practical manner by Prof. J. W. Gregg. "We cannot lay down an iron clad rule that will apply to every orchard in the state; not even every tree in an individual orchard. Pruning is the first thing that is to be taken into consideration. A tree needs good, fresh air and sunlight as well as human beings. Then the trees must be sprayed to get rid of all fungus and scale pests; this must be done thoroughly and practically. Cultivate shallow for the first year and then deeper the second and third and fourth. You should fertilize and mulch as your trees need it. Work the soil up to a state that you can grow clover and then you can grow good, healthy trees with abundance of good fruit. Often times individual trees need individual attention." Prof. Surface then made a short address on "Renovating the Peach." "They should be pruned back, all old, dead and worthless branches taken out, save the best suckers or water sprouts that come out; remove all others so as to throw more vitality into the ones that are left, prune these back about two-thirds, leaving the top bud on outside; spray to kill all fungus and scale pests.

"Fillers in the Apple Orchard" was then discussed by W. E. Grove. "If you place peaches in your apple orchard, you can use your peach crop to help pay for labor to attend the apple. Grapes and small berries have been found to be profitable and suggestive. There is a tendency to block peach and apple."

A committee on boxes and barrels and parcel post was appointed: W. C. Tyson, J. R. Sleek and Levi Wolford. Committee on organization, A. S. Guyer, Dr. Gump, J. I. Barley, Lloyd Wright, G. W. Dibert and C. B. Culp. Committee on co-operation, G. W. Dibert, W. F. Biddle, A. S. Guyer and J. I. Barley.

Afternoon Session
Called at 1:30 by the President. Report of Fruit Shippers' Association by A. B. Ross, followed by W. F. Biddle and Dr. Gump. J. R. Sleek then made a report of the state experimental work in his orchard.
"How Shall We Compete With the Western Apple?" by Prof. Gregg "We must supply ourselves with a good package, a small and attractive package. We must grade evenly and honestly. We must pay attention to the details. We must co-operate and get down to business." Prof. Surface: "I find that thinning fruit pays remarkably well. It is the production of seed not fruit that exhausts the vitality of the tree."
The committee on organization reported the following officers for ensuing year which was accepted and officers declared elected: President, A. C. Richards of Schellsburg R. D. 3; Secretary, W. F. Biddle, Everett R. D. 2; Treasurer, C. R. Drenning, Bedford R. D. 3; Executive Committee, A. C. Richards, A. Hyde, J. I. Barley, J. N. Drenning, Howard Cessna, Gideon Price, G. W. Dibert, C. L. King, Hon. J. M. Reynolds, Nathan Claiborn, Dr. S. H. Gump and A. S. Guyer.
"Controlling San Jose Scale" was opened by A. C. Richards. "Cut your trees back well and spray thoroughly with lime-sulfur is the treatment. San Jose scale has killed more trees than all other insects. We have full control of these pests if we just will. It is the person that don't spray that loses his trees."

Committee on parcel post and standard boxes and barrels reported. Report accepted and secretary ordered to spread on minutes and a copy sent to each of our representatives in Congress.
The fruit exhibit and display was the finest ever exhibited in this country. That was the sentiment of many that saw it. W. F. Biddle, Sec.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xxviii, 1-20.
Memory Verses, 5, 6—Golden Text,
Matt. xxviii, 20—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Those who know nothing of a risen Christ know nothing of faith or forgiveness of sins or life eternal and have no gospel to believe or preach (1 Cor. xv, 14-19). It was the one great topic of Peter and Paul in all their preaching. "This Jesus hath God raised up." "The Prince of Life, whom God hath raised from the dead." "With great power gave the apostles witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus." "The God of our fathers raised up Jesus." "Him God raised up the third day and showed Him openly." "God raised Him from the dead" (Acts ii, 24, 32; iii, 15, 26; iv, 10, 33; v, 30; x, 40; xiii, 23, 30, 33; Rom. i, 4). Hear the Lord Himself to John in Patmos long after He had ascended. "Fear not. I am the first and the last; I am He that liveth and was dead, and behold I am alive forevermore, amen, and have the keys of hell and of death" (Rev. i, 17, 18). In Col. iii, 1, believers are spoken of as "risen with Christ" and are exhorted to seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God.

After He died Joseph of Arimathea went to Pilate and asked for His body, and he and Nicodemus took it and wrapped it in a clean linen cloth, with about 100 pounds weight of spices, and laid it in Joseph's new tomb and rolled a great stone to the door and departed. The women from Galilee, having seen where His body was laid, returned and prepared spices with which to anoint His body when the Sabbath should have passed and rested the Sabbath day. Was there ever a gloomier Sabbath to any believers? He in whom they had trusted as their Messiah, to whom they had lovingly ministered, for whom they had forsaken all, had been taken from them and crucified by the authorities as a wicked person, and now they were in great darkness, without any hope, for they looked not for His resurrection. "Having no hope and without God in the world" (Eph. ii, 12) is the condition of so many religious people today because they know not a risen Christ.

The first day of the week having come, they are found very early at the tomb to do what they had purposed for His dead body, but the tomb is open, the stone rolled away, and there is nobody to anoint, for as the angel from heaven said to the women: "Ye seek Jesus, who was crucified. He is not here, for He is risen, as He said." Mary Magdalene, who came with the other women, seems to have run to tell Peter and John as soon as she saw that the tomb was open and the body gone. While she was gone the other women saw the angels and heard their message and went to tell the other disciples. Peter and John ran to the tomb, and, having seen for themselves that it was empty, the linen clothes lying just as when the body was in them, they went away again unto their own home (John xx, 3-10). Mary Magdalene returned to the tomb and stood weeping; then, stooping down and looking in, she saw two angels and heard them say, "Woman, why weepest thou?" Even as they spoke to her I think that she saw them looking beyond her, and, turning around, she saw a man whom she supposed to be the gardener, who also said to her: "Woman, why weepest thou? Whom seekest thou?" But not until He called her by name did she recognize Him. Thus He appeared first to Mary Magdalene even before He had ascended to the Father (John xx, 16-17) in His resurrection body. As she went to tell that she had seen Him He having ascended and returned, not the other women and allowed them to hold Him by the feet and worship Him (verse 9). Part of the angel's message to the women was, "Go your way, tell His disciples and Peter" (Mark xvi, 7), the only one mentioned specially by name. Some time, somewhere, on that day He appeared to Peter alone (Luke xxiv, 34). In the afternoon He appeared to the two who walked to Emmaus, and He walked with them and opened to them the Scriptures. In the evening He appeared to ten of them (Thomas being absent), comforted them, showed them His hands and His feet and ate a piece of broiled fish and honeycomb before them (Luke xxiv, 36-43). Thus He appeared five times on that day, and we know that He appeared on at least five other occasions during those forty days. "He showed Himself alive after His passion by many infallible proofs, being seen of them forty days and speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God" (Acts i, 3).

At the end of the forty days, having commanded them to wait in Jerusalem till He should send them the Holy Spirit, He visibly ascended from the Mount of Olives, and when He shall come again to that same mount, bringing His saints with Him, Israel shall receive Him, and He will set up His kingdom (Acts i, 10-12; Zech. xiv, 4, 5, 9). Our commission during His absence is to be His witnesses in the power of His Spirit, in all the world, in the consciousness of His presence and the manifestation of His power, that from all nations may be gathered His body, the church, that so He may come again (Acts i, 8; Matt. xxviii, 19-20; Acts iii, 19-21).

THE MUSTY AND DISTANT PAST

for the White Man to Solve in the Puye Canyon.

(By M. J. Brown, Editor Little Valley, N. Y., Hub.)

For more than a mile the white cliff homes of our first Americans rise up from the level to a height of from 200 to 600 feet and so close together are they but a thin space of the soft rock separates them.

It is a strange sight for we foreigners—we Columbus Americans—who don't know our country.

Hundreds of years ago, no doubt thousands of years ago, these cliffs stood perpendicular, but time and erosion of wind and rain have crumbled and broken down the rocks, and where four and five stories of human homes were once chiseled, now in many places but two and three stories stand the crumbling rock and the wash of accumulations from above having buried the lower or ground floor rooms.

When these cliff homes were dug there was no iron in New Mexico. They were scooped out by hand by these pre-historic people, carved out by pieces of volcanic glass that they traveled many miles to the Jemez (pronounce it Hamez) mountains to find.

From the wash at the foot of the cliffs I picked up several fine specimens of these glass tools, thick and as hard as a beer bottle, and as surely glass as if blown in Pittsburgh. With these fragments that the mountains vomited up, these little cliff men burrowed out their homes.

The formation of the rock is soft—well, simply ashes—and I took a knife blade and soon made an excavation that would hold my fist. But these men did not have knives or any metallic substances, and I do not wonder their homes were not made larger when they had only these fragments of glass to dig them with. I commenced on the ground level (what is now the ground) and went down the line, crawling into almost every home, and I will never forget the impressions of awe and mystery they gave me.

The first room, the living room, of almost every cliff home is the same, and inside they vary only in the number of additions carved out, and I suppose these were regulated by the size of the family and the amount of glass on hand. Almost every room has one excavation leading from it, but very few of them are high enough for one to stand erect or long enough to be down. The Indian farmer, who has custody over the Puye cliffs, said that this one common side room seems to have been a grave, and that when a member of the family died he was put in this little round room, in a sitting position, and then the room was walled up and plastered over. He said that excavations in many of the rooms had proved this and many skeletons had been found, not mummies, either in a sitting position on the floor, with back to the rock, or in many cases, forward on the floor of the cave, faces down.

So I take it that these second rooms, chiseled out, and plastered and left open, were graves waiting for some one to die, and when they died, the corpse was walled in, and another grave dug—to be in readiness, that the funeral ceremonies might not hitch. And yet as I will tell you later, there is a great burial ground on the mesa where hundreds of skeletons lie.

Every home is plastered, covered with cement, and some have many coatings. That is they are plastered about half way up the walls, and you can plainly see where the plaster ends, and where the smoke commences. You can hardly stand erect in the highest part of the oval rooms, so it seems that the walls were plastered only so high up as would drier a shirt waist when Mrs. Cliff Dweller was sitting on the floor with her back to the wall.

In one room I took my knife and cut through seven layers of plaster, one laid over the other, and each strata clearly distinguishable. Whether these layers were put on once a year or once in a hundred years I can only guess.

On every side of these oval rooms are various sizes of niches, cut into the walls and plastered. Some are high up, some on the floor level—all shapes and sizes. We can only wonder at their uses but no doubt they were the sideboards of those days, and receptacles for the family necessities. One in particular was just the size for a baby's bed, and perhaps it was.

In one room, plainly discernible, was what was once the opening of one of the larger rooms, mentioned above, and an oval seam on the plaster showed the opening had been closed long after the rest of the room had had its coat. Mr. Hoag, the custodian, said that no doubt a skeleton was sitting just the other side of the wall. Oh, for a pick and thirty minutes, when the guard wasn't there! I would have dug out this fellow, rattled his bones and asked him what it was all about.

One house, just about the middle of the long cliff, and where a stone stairway ascends to the mesa, was different from all the rest. It was a double home or rather where a home had once been built and then another added, making one room, double the size of nearly all of the other hundreds of rooms of the city.

Let me explain that every house is built alike, about 6x10, every one has a door opening, just big enough to crawl through on hands and knees and that every house has an opening just above the door, about 12 inches round, for a smoke hole.

And from the inside of this house could be as plainly seen as if it were done yesterday, where one door and smoke hole had been walled up. Small stones were laid up in the wall and plaster spread between, and when the work had been completed the cement was joined to the older plaster on the wall.

And here I saw a mark I will never forget—the print of a human hand on the plaster, the imprint of the Cliff Dweller who did the job. How long it had been there none can tell.

And now let me tell you something about some relics that I dug from the floor of a cliff home—priceless relics to me of an unknown age and civilization.

At noon the custodian had to return to his tent to meet some forest rangers for the little Indian uprising had caused some excitement. The distance was four miles. The driver had laid down for a nap. I watched the man disappear down the canyon. I remembered a cave that had particularly interested me as having the walled opening and as having so many more small rooms cut from it. I took an empty pear can from where we had lunched, battered the opened end down like a wedge, and then I went up the ladder to this ruin like a squirrel. And there in the dust of ages, blown in from the desert, brought in by the rock squirrels and birds, I dug, dug frantically for some relic, while the powder dust filled my eyes and ears.

And I found a treasure trove. There I uncovered small, wizened bits of corn cob, nearly mummified by this driest air on earth, and there I found a part of an ear of corn with the kernels on, and just as plain corn as if I had taken it from a New York State feed store. It is as black as a coal, both the kernels and cob, and the kernels are as brittle as coffee berries, and black all the way through. From the quarts of dust I carried out to a better light, I found a dozen or more separate kernels, which I gathered and treasured like diamonds.

For an hour I frantically dug to the rock floor almost every inch of the space, but only in one corner did I find anything but broken bits of pottery—and I found many of these fragments.

Beside the one perfect section of a corn ear I found the tapering tip to another ear with the small kernels at the end, and five small pieces of cob wizened to the size of your finger.

I noted that as soon as exposed to the light and air the kernels on the cob could be easily rattled off, and how to save my treasures was the question. I climbed down from the cliffs, shook off the dust, and put the relics in my hat, and got back to the wagon just in time to meet Mr. Hoag on his return.

Later, as I sat talking with him, and forgetting my treasures, I pushed up my hat, and two or three ancient kernels of corn fell down over my modern forehead. I believe I was scared pale, not so much because I had been forbidden to dig, but because I was afraid of losing my treasures. But he did not notice the leak. I have the relics now safely packed in cotton, in ten boxes in my suit cases, and when I get home I will plant some of the kernels, and see if I can't raise a crop of Before Columbus corn. I have exhausted my space and I haven't told you half. I have yet to tell you of the stairways, the trails, the kiva and what a sight met my New York eyes when we had climbed the stone stairway to the table land above the cliff homes.

Now if the Indians will only be good one more day and let me get out with my tin box of relics, then they may have this dried up and deserted land, and the spirits and ravens may guard the graves of these little old men of the long ago.

"Suffered day and night the torment of itching piles. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Ointment. It cured me permanently."—Hon. John R. Garrett, Mayor, Girard, Ala.

WISDOM'S WHISPERS

It is all right to marry solely for love if one is prepared and willing to wear his old clothes longer.

Some men's idea of giving thanks is to mumble a long one-sided conversation with the Lord while the dinner gets cold, and then growl at their wives because it isn't hot.

There are a hundred new-fangled ways of stuffing a turkey, but none that is any improvement on the sacred tradition of sage and onions.

A social way can't be said to be a success unless the departing guests make so much noise they wake up the neighborhood.

Along about noon every man puts off till tomorrow doing the great deed which is to make him famous.

The cold truth is that the only lullaby songs ever heard are sung by women on the stage, wearing dresses that button down the back.

One advantage about babies and love affairs is that one isn't apt to be kept awake by both at the same time.

If we had no defects ourselves, we should not take so much pleasure in noting those of others.

No man is happy without a delusion of some kind. Delusions are as necessary to our happiness as realities.

To have what we want is needs, but to be able to do without it is power.

Bedford Planing Mill Co.

LUMBER,

Slate, Brick, Shingles, Planing Mill Work of every description.
A. G. STEINER, Supt.

Omaha, Neb., December 11.—Pastor Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle visited our city yesterday as the guest of the International Bible Students' Association. He gave two public addresses, which were heard by large and intelligent audiences. We report his address from these words of Scripture:

"And Isaac brought Rebecca into his mother Sarah's tent, and she became his wife and he loved her."—Genesis xxiv, 67.

When we sometimes speak of Abraham, Isaac and others as types we should not be understood to mean that they were merely types—that the Bible stories respecting them are fictitious. A person or thing is a type when, in addition to the actual experiences, the Scriptures indicate that it prefigures and illustrates on a small scale some person or things yet future. As, for instance, Adam in certain respects, as the head of the race, was a type of Messiah, the Second Adam.

The first Adam was the head of our race, but failed to give the eternal life desired. In God's providence Messiah is to be the Second Adam, in the sense that he will regenerate, as his children, all the posterity of the First Adam. Messiah is thus declared in prophecy to be the Everlasting Father of mankind—the Father or Lifegiver, better than Adam, and who will give to our race everlasting life, instead of a heritage of weakness, imperfection and death.

Similarly, Moses not only was a real character, the leader of the nation of Israel, but, additionally, he was a type of a greater Mediator—Messiah. As Moses mediated the Law Covenant for Israel, so Messiah, the Prophet like unto Moses, or antitypical of him (Acts iii, 23), is to be the Mediator of Israel's New Covenant, under which the Abrahamic blessings will reach them and through them reach all the families of the earth (Jer. xxxi, 31).

Similarly, Aaron was a type of the higher priesthood and its better sacrifices connected with the New Covenant. So, also, the under-priests and the Levites, additional to their own experiences, served, in God's providence, as types of the higher institutions by which the New Covenant will be inaugurated shortly.

On this occasion we ask your attention to Abraham, known in the Scriptures as the friend of God, as the father of the faithful, and to his son Isaac, the Son of Promise, born out of the natural order, miraculously, when his mother was old; also to Isaac's wife, Rebecca, selected by Abraham to be the companion and joint-heir with his son Isaac in his inheritance. These personages lived their lives wholly unconscious of the fact that God was using them and over-ruling their affairs so as to make of them prophetic pictures of his own great Plan of the Ages. These type-pictures are always to be read in full harmony with the inspired writings of the Bible and never to be understood in contradiction of the same.

Abraham a Type of God
Not everything that Abraham did, however, is to be esteemed typical. In a general way this grand man of the past looms up before our minds as a monument of faith and integrity and justice. The blessings promised to go through him to his Seed, which would constitute him the father of many nations, made of him, as St. Paul points out, a type of the Almighty, from whom flows every good and perfect gift—from whom proceeds the blessing which ultimately is to flow through Messiah, his Son, and through Israel, his people, unto all the families of the earth.

All Christians, presumably, are aware of St. Paul's interpretation of Abraham and his family as types. As Abraham typified God, so his wife typified the Covenant through which the vitality of the promise ultimately develops the Seed of Promise—Isaac in a type, and Messiah in the antitype. St. Paul also explains that Sarah's servant, Hagar, at Sarah's wish, became for a time her representative with Abraham and brought forth Ishmael. Hagar, St. Paul explains, typified the Law Covenant, vitalized by the gracious arrangements of the same God and Father. And Hagar's son, literally Abraham's first-born, typified the Jewish nation, the first development under the Covenant.

As Abraham loved Isaac and desired a blessing upon him, so God loved Israel and desired a blessing upon Israel, the offspring of the Law Covenant. Nevertheless, as Ishmael, the offspring of the bond-woman, was declared not to be the primary heir of the Abrahamic promise, but a secondary one, so the children of Israel, the offspring of the Law Covenant, were not intended to be the Spiritual Messiah through whom the promise declared that the blessing should first proceed.

In the type, we see that Sarah, Abraham's wife, who represented the original Abrahamic Covenant, brought forth a son of her own, Isaac, long years after the bondmaid, her substitute, had brought forth Ishmael. When Isaac was born, Sarah repudiated Ishmael and no longer acknowledged him as her son, but, instead, claimed everything for Isaac. The antitype of this is that from the time that God began the development of the Spiritual Israel and set forth the "Covenant by sacrifice," through which this Spiritual Israel would be developed—from that time it began to be clearly manifest that the chief portion of the promise of God to bless the world was not to be fulfilled through the Ishmael Seed, natural Israel, but through the Isaac Seed—Spiritual Israel.

The Well-Spring of Hope for the Jews

From the first there was manifested a competition for the Abrahamic blessing. And as Ishmael mocked at the infant Isaac, so the Jew, in his considerable development and strength, mocked at the Antitypical Isaac—Jesus and his comparatively ignorant and unlearned followers—and persecuted them. In order to continue the type, that Abraham might typify God, he was commanded to send forth Hagar and her son into the wilderness. That sending forth typified the Divine disfavor which came upon the Jews eighteen centuries ago and which has made them outcasts from God's favor, as Hagar and Ishmael were cut off from Abraham's presence and family and care. The bread and water which Hagar took with her, by which she and Ishmael were nourished in the wilderness for a time, pictures and types the promises of God through the Law and the prophetic which still belong to the Jew and upon which, for eighteen centuries, he has been nourished, and without which the hopes of the nation would have perished.

Now we come to the dire moment pictured in Genesis xxi, 15-19. The water provided by Abraham had been consumed. No more was to be had. Ishmael was dying. Hagar, his mother, separated herself from him. At the opportune moment the angel of the Lord appeared to her and pointed to a spring of water, where she refreshed herself and Ishmael with new life.

The antitype of this is now to be seen before us. The Jewish people, separated more and more from the Law and the Prophets, are becoming weak and faint as respects hope. They are about to die! But no, the Lord graciously points out a well-spring of the water of life at this critical moment. As Ishmael was rescued from death by this water, so the nation of Israel, whom he typified, is now about to find in the providence of God that their portion of the Abrahamic Covenant is the earthly one, not the heavenly one, not the spiritual. They are about to be refreshed and to enter upon a new career. That career, however, will not mark them as Ishmaelites, nor will their New Covenant relationship be symbolized by Hagar, the Old Law Covenant. Thenceforth they are represented under a new type.

Isaac Was Heir of All

If, at first, our Jewish friends might be inclined to feel disappointed that they were represented in Ishmael, and not in Isaac, by the Hagar Covenant, the Covenant of bondage to the Law, instead of being freed from the Law, there is a consolation. Their consolation is that Isaac typified the Messiah and that Israel is pictured as the nation on whose behalf Messiah will mediate the New Law Covenant. The Messiah must be spiritual, in order to be able to confer the great blessings indicated in the Covenant made with Abraham. The nation of Israel never expected to be spiritual and had no such promise in the Bible. To the Jews will come exactly what they have always been expecting—greatness as an earthly people, honor as the elect nation through whom the New Covenant blessings will be opened up to all the world of mankind—the Gentiles.

As already pointed out, Isaac, the son of Abraham, typified the Messiah of glory, the Son of God and heir of all the promises—the one through whom alone eternal life may be obtained and restitution to that perfection which will enable Israel and the world to keep the Divine Law per-

Eleazar Type of the Holy Spirit

In due time, Abraham sent his trusted servant Eleazar (typical of the holy Spirit) to select a Bride for his son Isaac. Eleazar might not go anywhere. He was directed to go only to those of Abraham's family, thus implying that none would be called to be the Bride of Messiah except such as were already in relationship to God through faith, obedience and justification. When the servant had found Rebecca he put upon her certain jewels, explained to her and her relatives the nature of his mission, and asked her if she were willing to come and be Isaac's Bride. He said, My master, Abraham, is very rich and all that he hath he hath given unto Isaac.

Thus the great riches of God are again illustrated in Abraham and the fact that Messiah is his Son and the heir of all the promises of God, the One through whom Israel and all mankind shall be blessed. Rebecca promptly responded and thus betrothed herself to the unseen Bridegroom and hastened with the servant to Isaac. As her kinsfolk bade her goodbye they wished her a blessing in these words, "Be thou the mother of thousands of millions" (Genesis xxiv, 60).

We read that "Rebecca arose and her damsels (maids, servants) and they rode upon the camels and followed the man Eleazar."

Here we find, in harmony with other Scriptures, a picture of this Gospel Age, and its work of bringing to Messiah a special Bride class of saintly ones. First amongst these saints were some of the Jewish nation, according to the Divine Rule; as the Scriptures set forth—"to the Jew first." This Bride class has been selected from every nation, people, kindred and tongue, yet in all will be but a little flock—"Fear not, little flock, it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the Kingdom"—the spiritual, unseen Kingdom of Messiah—joint-heirship with him in his throne—not the earthly Kingdom which has been promised definitely to Israel.

The Bride Class and the Great Company

Other Scriptures have shown us that there are two classes amongst these saints. A few, peculiarly devoted, will constitute the Bride class. And a large number, not so courageous of the Truth and righteousness, will constitute her companions, her servants, as Rebecca traveled accompanied by her servants. These two classes are particularly specified in the Scriptures (45th Psalm), where we read of the Messiah-Bride and Queen. In her resurrection glory she is pictured as the Queen robed in gold of Ophir with fine needlework—the glory representing the divine nature which will be granted her and the fine needlework representing her glorious righteousness, embellished with the fruits of the holy Spirit. The Psalmist tells how she shall be brought into the presence of the great King Jehovah and then adds that the virgins, or companions, that follow her shall also be brought into the presence of the King, showing that there will always be a difference of rank on the spiritual plane. These two classes are again pictured in the Law as Priests and Levites, the Bride class being represented by the Priests, owing to their willing sacrifices of the earthly portion in favor of the heavenly.

We are not to identify the Bride class with the nominal Christian Churches of today any more than we would identify the Apostles with the Jewish Church of their day. The Apostles were a select few, and similarly all the members of the Church throughout the Age have been a select few out of a nominal many. "The Lord knoweth them that are his." The true Church has been selected, not only from all of the twelve tribes of Israel, but from every other nation, people and tongue, even so many as the Lord our God has called.

Rebecca's leaving her father's house typified the personal consecration of each one who, led of the Spirit, accepts the Divine invitation to joint-heirship with Christ. The first jewelry given to Rebecca, when first she heeded the invitation and invited the servant to her home, represents the earliest blessing received by believers. The jewelry she received after she had decided to go to Isaac and become his wife represents the blessings of the Holy Spirit which come upon the fully consecrated, those who determine to walk in the footsteps of Jesus in the narrow way into the Kingdom, under the guidance of the Holy Spirit.

Arrived at the end of her journey, she found herself in the presence of Isaac, and immediately alighted from her camel and covered herself with a veil. Thus, pictorially, is represented the fact that the Church, when having experienced the change of the First Resurrection and in the presence of the heavenly Bridegroom, will no longer need the guidance of the Holy Spirit, through the Scriptures. This part of the picture, of course, is yet future. The Scriptures, however, indicate, and outward conditions corroborate the fact, that the time of this glorious change is nigh at hand.

To Be the Mother of Thousands of Millions

Isaac immediately received Rebecca and took her into his mother's tent. Sarah had died and Rebecca became her successor. Thus is beautifully pictured the fact that when the Bride of Messiah shall be complete on the plane of glory, the Sarah Covenant will be at an end and her place, as a channel of blessing, will be taken by the glorified Church. Then will be fulfilled the prophetic blessing of her relatives, "Be thou the mother of thousands of millions." Those thousands of millions represent the world of mankind, which will be regenerated, or granted new life by the great Messiah during the thousand years of his reign as the Mediator of the New Covenant.

Messiah will be the regenerator and his Bride will be the nourisher, instructor, helper of all mankind under the New Covenant, because it will be this antitypical Isaac and his Bride that will mediate for Israel, and through Israel for the world, the New Covenant of Restitution blessings (Acts iii, 19-21). "In thee and in thy Seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed," applies primarily, as St. Paul shows, to Messiah and his Church in glory—the sacrifices being past, the spiritual nature being attained as a reward for the sacrifices (Galatians iii, 16, 29).

Whoever will first receive Messiah and come into harmony with the righteous laws of his invisible Kingdom will be the first to be blessed. There will be no partiality in this matter, for God is no respecter of persons. However, because of their past experiences and earthly hopes and trust in the Law and the Prophets, the Jews will be the first amongst the nations to accept the new order of things and ally themselves with it; therefore, to them will the blessings go first and through them, as instruments of the Kingdom, the blessings will extend to all.

While thanking God for the glorious prospects of that glorious time which is nearing, let us, dear friends, seek to make our calling and election sure to membership in the Body of the Bride of Christ.

GERMS IN HER SYSTEM

Every Woman Should Read This Advice and the Generous Offer That Goes With It.

The number of diseases peculiar to women is such that we believe this space would hardly contain a mere mention of their names, and it is a fact that most of these diseases are of a catarrhal nature. A woman cannot be well if there is a trace of catarrh in her system.

Some women think there is no help for them. We positively declare this to be a mistaken idea. We are sure of this that we offer to supply medicine absolutely free of all cost in every instance where it fails to give satisfaction, or does not substantiate our claims. With this understanding, no woman should hesitate to believe our honesty of purpose, or hesitate to put our claims to a test.

There is only one way to overcome catarrh. That way is through the blood. You may use all the snuffs, douches or like remedies for years without getting more than temporary relief at best. Catarrh in general is a diseased condition of the system that shows locally most frequently in discharges from mucous membranes. Local treatment should be assisted by internal treatment for the general diseased condition if a complete cure is to be reached. That internal treatment should be scientifically devised and faithfully administered.

Rexall Mucu-Tone is scientifically prepared from the prescription of an eminent physician who for thirty years made catarrh his specialty. This remedy is admirably adapted to the treatment of the catarrhal ailments of women. It purifies and enriches the blood, tends to stop mucous discharges, aids in removing impurities from the system, soothes, heals and strengthens the mucous tissues, and brings about a feeling of health and strength.

We want you to try Rexall Mucu-Tone on our guarantee. If you are not benefited, or for any reason not satisfied, simply tell us and we will hand back your money. Rexall Mucu-Tone comes in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies only at The Rexall Store. F. W. Jordan.

Only a few days till Christmas---are you ready to select the items on your gift list---or are you like hundreds of others, don't know exactly what to get? In this case we can be of service to you by suggesting dozens of useful articles for gifts.

Spend a little time on these lists---it will pay you in comfort and in money, too. Careless, hurried buying is always wasteful and unsatisfactory.

Bedford County Teachers will find at this store the largest stock of Fine Shoes, Furs, Gloves, Hosiery, Handkerchiefs, Neckwear, etc., to be found in this part of the state.
